

DIGITAL VIDEO PRODUCTION

These patented technologies generally relate to features that can be found in production video processing equipment. They cover improved methods of equipment interconnection, aspects of graphical user interface displays, and automation of video processing. These features allow ease of equipment interconnection, clearer information display, and automation of video production tasks previously performed manually. Other aspects of the patented technologies include rendering of certain 3D effects such as those used in video scene transitions.