

HIGH RESOLUTION OPTICS

These patents generally relate to refractive and diffractive systems and methods for improving imaging capabilities in multi-element optical systems by using fewer elements. The patented systems and techniques have applications in military imaging systems such as thermal weapon sites, as well as commercial products like camera lenses and optical printers.