

NETWORK MONITORING

This patented technology generally relates to monitoring and reporting on management and financial characteristics of networks and can be used to help organizations make resource decisions.